"This course is a must for anyone with aspirations for school leadership"

"AMC's Aiming High was extremely useful. Individual advice which gave me specific points to develop. The relatively small number of delegates meant that we all had the opportunity to ask questions and discuss our experiences with the associates. Well worth the time."

"This course not only delivers essential practical suggestions for the entire process of applying for Leadership positions, from completing your CV to interview techniques, but it also enables you to benefit from the wealth of experience on show from the impressive presenters. I would thoroughly recommend this course."

"The best career CPD I have done"
